

Ogilvy Equestrian named the official saddle pad for the 2012 Canadian Hunter Derby Series

To celebrate the launch of its new hunter line, Ogilvy Equestrian has teamed up with the Canadian Hunter Derby Series for the 2012 season. Ogilvy Equestrian will provide the winners of each of the 25 events taking place across the country with products from its new line of hunter saddle pads.

The Ogilvy Equestrian hunter line will include the same technology of its Jumper and Dressage saddle pads to eliminate friction, distribute pressure evenly, and provide shock absorption to both horse and rider. In addition the Hunter saddle pads will include real Merino wool sheepskin for the ultimate in comfort and quality.

Top riders trust Ogilvy Equestrian saddle pads:

"The morning of the first day of showing at the Royal winter fair one of my horses came down with a case of skin fungus on his back. His back was inflamed and very sore to the touch. Thinking I was going to have to scratch, a friend recommended I try the Ogilvy hunter pad. It fit him great, by eliminating the friction along his back and not putting pressure along his sore points. The Ogilvy hunter pad allowed his back to breathe and I was able to show a very happy horse. I now use both the Ogilvy hunter and jumper pads on all my horses."
